“Since the MVE recognition was first offered in 2009, an increasing number of businesses are giving military veterans the opportunity to enter the corporate workforce,” said Garrett Reed, Branch Manager of CivilianJobs.com. “What distinguished the entries this year was the quality of the finalist submissions and the variety of programs they are using to attract and retain military job seekers. I want to personally thank and congratulate every finalist for their efforts to launch and expand their veteran hiring initiatives.”

The 2016 Most Valuable Employers (MVE) for Military presented by DeVry University was open to all U.S.-based companies. The finalists were selected based on surveys in which employers outlined their recruiting, training and retention plans that best serve military service members and veterans. Winners will be selected from this pool of finalist companies and will be announced in May. In addition to being recognized in the May issue of Military Transition News, CivilianJobs.com's worldwide military base newspaper, winning employers will also be displayed on the CivilianJobs.com web site.

To be included on the 2017 award submission deadline notification, companies should send an email request to MVE\(at\)CivilianJobs\(dot\)comCivilianJobs(dot)com).
